

Press Release for immediate use 11/12/08

For the second year running, Domicilium's hosting facility at Ronaldsway has been nominated for awards which recognise excellence in facility design and operation.

It was in December 2007 whilst Domicilium were still constructing their new facility that they were first short listed in the "Innovation in an Outsourced Environment" category, a pan-European award at the prestigious Datacentre Dynamics Awards Ceremony. After what has been a successful first year in their new state of the art premises, Domicilium have once again been nominated for two awards in the pan-European award "Innovation in an Outsourced Environment" and "Innovation in the Medium Datacentre" a UK wide award. Domicilium operate the only Datacentre on the Island to be shortlisted in these awards.

Companies that have been short listed alongside Domicilium include Merrill Lynch, Morgan Stanley and Aviva. Also Arup, BskyB, Digital Reality Trust, Fujitsu, HP, IBM, EDS, Sun Microsystems, London City Airport and public sector and education leaders in Datacentre design build and operation. Zahl Limbuwala, Chairman, Data Centre Specialist Group at the British Computer Society (BCS) heads up the judging panel for these prestigious awards, and the winners will be announced at a gala dinner at London's Royal Lancaster Hotel, where over 500 of the leading players within this market will gather to recognise excellence within their industry.

It has been a year that has seen Domicilium buck the world economic trend with record growth. Bill Mummery Executive Director of Celton Manx Limited [www.sbobet.com] commented "I have worked with Domicilium as a strategic partner for almost ten years. Their new IOM hosting facility coupled with their exceptional set of Technical Skills makes them a truly world class Hosting Provider".

Phil Adcock Technical Director of Domicilium said “Our industry leading datacentre facility at Ronaldsway represents the latest phase of our sustained investment in the Isle of Man over the last seventeen years. Our nomination clearly demonstrates that the Isle of Man is considered as leading the field in the use of technology in its pursuit of e-business excellence”.

Andrew Cairns Programme Manager of Domicilium said “In what are currently turbulent times, it is very rewarding to see that Domicilium, a privately owned Island company can deliver solutions and services that are not just recognised by Domicilium's clients as being world class, but which can compete on a global stage holding their own against what are considered prestige Marques in the world of hosting.”
